The policyholder is bound by the insurance application for 15 (fifteen) days of its date of submission.

- III.1.4. The policy shall be executed – by the insurance company's implicit conduct (tacitly) – on the terms of the application, also if the insurance company fails to respond to the policyholder's insurance application within fifteen (15) days of its receipt, provided that

An insurance policy so concluded shall be concluded on the day following the end of the underwriting period, with retroactive effect to the date when the insurance company was delivered the insurance application.

If a policy which is concluded by the insurance company's implicit conduct derogates in material terms from the standard policy terms, the insurance company will have 15 days of the conclusion of the policy to propose that it be modified according to the standard terms. Under any one of the above conditions, the insurance coverage covers only the claims based on breach of duty committed before the events from the above list happened.

- III.3.3. The policy period shall be the period for which the insurance premium has been calculated as a unit, regardless of any insurance premium payment in installments. For policies concluded for an indeterminate period, the policy period shall start on the renewal date of the policy every year and shall last for 1 year therefrom. For policies concluded for a fixed term, the policy period shall be equal to the full coverage period, unless otherwise provided in the insurance policy.
- III.3.4. The renewal date of the policy is the first day of the policy period. The renewal date will be the same day as the commencement of the insurance coverage provided that such date is the first day of a month, otherwise it will be the first day of the following month.

 - upon termination of an insurance policy concluded by implicit conduct (tacitly), under the circumstances described in Clause III.1.4. or in case of a material increase in the insurance risk, as set out in Clause VII.2.3. of these Terms and Conditions;
 - if an insured event occurs before the commencement of the insurance coverage, occurrence thereof has become impossible or the insurance interest has ceased to exist. - IV.2. The insurance coverage will apply to claims arising from or in relation to an illicit and tortious act of the insured committed after the date referred to in Clause IV.6, on the understanding that the insurance will only respond to claims first made against the insured – with the exception of those described in IV.3 and IV.4 – while the insurance policy is in force, and which are notified to the insurance company not later than within 30 days after the termination of the insurance policy.

IV.3. Extension of Loss Reporting Period in Case of Withdrawn Parties Insured

The insurance company extends the duration of the loss reporting period to an indeterminate period in case of parties insured whose position / employment relationship as insured discontinues before the expiry of the term of this policy – including cases when a contract of agency is not extended as well as cases of retirement –, and this policy is failed to be renewed with the insurance company or another insurance company, or coverage by the renewed insurance policy does not extend to them.

This extension shall not be applicable if such position / employment relationship is terminated after a transaction or the policy is cancelled due to non-payment of the insurance premium.

Claims may be taken into consideration in view of the policy period, up to the sum insured available for the company in respect of the last insurance policy in effect.

IV.4. Extension of Loss Reporting Period

If the insurance company does not extend the policy or the policyholder fails to take measures, for any reason, to conclude a new insurance contract of continuous coverage for the next policy period before the expiry of the policy term, the policyholder shall be entitled to an extended loss reporting period for 1 year of the date of expiry of the term of the insurance policy, without the payment of surcharges, except

- a) if during the policy period a transaction event occurs;
- b) if the insurance contract terminates due to non-payment of the insurance premium; or
- c) if the policyholder replaces these insurance policy with other similar or equivalent directors and officers or other liability insurance policy.

Such extension shall only apply to loss and damage resulting from illicit and tortuous conduct demonstrated during the coverage period or the retroactive period of the insurance policy. Claims reported during such extended loss reporting period shall be considered by the parties as if they had been reported during the coverage period of the insurance contract.

The Policyholder has the opportunity paying the surcharge established by the Insurer to extend the loss reporting period for longer period in case if

- the request of the Policyholder for the extension of the loss reporting period is received by the Insurer not later than 30 days before the policy expiry date and
- the surcharge established by the Insurer for the extension of the loss reporting period is paid by the Policyholder not later than 30 days after the policy expiry date.

The provisions of chapter IV.4. are not applicable in case if

- the insurance contract expires due to non-payment of the insurance premium, or
- transaction event happens during the policy period.

IV.5. Coverage for Reporting Circumstances Resulting in Claims

In the event that a claim to be enforced is received subsequently by the insurance company under circumstances expected to result in claim enforcement, already reported to the insurance company before the termination of this policy, it shall be considered as if the claim had been reported during the term of the insurance policy, on the same day when such circumstance leading to such claim was reported.

IV.6. Retroactive Coverage

As agreed by the parties, the insurance covers claims arising from or in relation to the insured's illicit and tortious act or breach of obligation committed after a date specifically entered on the insurance application but preceding the inception of the insurance policy, on the understanding that the insurance will only respond to claims first made against the insured while the insurance policy is in force or during the extended loss reporting period.

While the insurance policy is in force, the date referred to in this Clause with respect to automatic subsidiary coverage for new subsidiaries (II.2.3) may not be earlier than the date of establishment or the date of acquiring majority control.

IV.7. For the purposes of these conditions

- a) the date of causing loss or damage shall be the day when the tortuous act has taken place.
In the event that loss or damage is caused by omission, the date of causing such loss or damage shall be the day when such omission could still have been made good without the occurrence of such loss or damage.
- b) the date of claim shall be the day insured first received the written demand or official information of the commencing of proceedings or prosecution.
- c) the date of a serial loss shall be the date of the first loss within such series.
Series of claims based on the same illicit conduct shall be considered one claim. Date of such claim shall be the date of the first claim in such series.
- d) the date of reporting the claim shall be the day when the insured reports the occurrence of loss or damage to the insurance company in accordance with Clause VIII.1.1.

V. Sum Insured

- V.1. Upon the occurrence of an insured event, the obligation of the insurance company to provide benefits shall be, at a maximum, the sum insured for each and every loss and for the policy period in the aggregate as specified in the insurance application.

- V.1.1. The sum insured for each occurrence is the maximum amount of the benefit which may be paid out on any one insured event, subject to the conditions governing insurance benefits (Clause VIII.2.).

- V.1.2. The sum insured specified for the insurance period shall be the total of payouts which may be made on all insured events arising from insured events within such period, subject to the conditions governing insurance benefits (Clause VIII.2.).

If a claim for indemnity brought against the insured arising from an insured event which occurred in a given policy period is reported to the insurance company only in the subsequent policy period, the amount of the benefits payable by the insurance company will not be determined on the basis of the sum insured applicable to the current policy period, but on the basis of the remaining sum insured applicable to the policy period in which the insured event occurred, while also taking into account the provisions on insurance benefits (Clause VIII.2.).

The sum insured specified for the policy period shall be reduced by any amounts paid out for any insured events occurred (loss and damage caused) within the same policy period. The policyholder shall not be entitled to increase the sum insured specified for the policy period to its original value by supplementing the annual sum insured accordingly (maintaining adequate coverage). The insurance policy shall remain in effect with the sum insured reduced by the amount paid out for the current policy period.

- V.2. The insurance benefit (Clause VIII. 2.) payable by the insurance company may not exceed the sum insured even if the indemnification obligation rests with several insured parties or if claims for indemnity are brought by several persons. If claims are brought by several persons, and the sum insured for each occurrence is not enough to settle all claims for indemnity, the insurance company shall pay the indemnity in proportion to the loss suffered by the injured parties – or if the loss cannot be determined at all or it would require extra expenditures on behalf of the insurance company – in the proportion to the estimated loss or damage.
- V.3. This insurance policy will only pay out the Loss in excess of amounts recovered under any other insurance policy – including but not limited to other D&O liability insurance, liability insurance against the violation of law in the capacity of the employer, product liability insurance and general liability insurance – or in excess of the total of indemnification or compensation paid by any other third parties to the insured.

And regular premium payment shall be due on the first day of the period (policy year, half-year, quarter) which it is payable for. Single premium payment shall be due on the day of concluding the policy.
- VI.3.2. Any insurance premium (or premium installment) paid by the policyholder prior to the conclusion of the insurance policy shall be deemed as an advance premium, which the insurance company will handle free of interest. Further factors modifying the insurance premium shall particularly include the sum insured, the amount of deductible undertaken, the insured's business, the frequency and manner of insurance premium payment, and other data disclosed by the policyholder in the course of risk assessment (e.g. loss precedents).

VI.5. Modification of the Insurance Premium

- VI.5.1. Updating Based on Changes of Data Forming a Basis for the Premium Calculation

- VI.5.1.1. If the data used for the calculation of the insurance premium change, the parties shall modify the insurance premium for the next insurance period with effect from the next renewal date.

For the purposes of insurance premium calculations, the policyholder shall be obligated to report any changes in the data included in the insurance application and forming a basis for the premium calculation at least 60 days before the renewal date of the policy.

- VI.5.1.2. If the insurance company becomes aware that the actual data and the data used for the premium calculation are different, it shall be entitled, notwithstanding the provisions set out in Clause XII.1., to determine and charge premiums for the last five years retroactively based on such actual data and to claim any difference from the policyholder.
- VI.5.1.3. If the policyholder discloses incorrect data for the premium calculation, or fails to comply with his/her duty described in Clause VI.5.1.1. and an insured event occurs, the insurance company shall pay the benefit for only the same proportion of the damage assessed – but maximum the total damage – as the proportion of the paid premium compared to the premium the policyholder should have paid if the correct data had been disclosed to the insurance company.

- VI.5.2. Changes in Premium Tariffs

During the coverage period, the insurance company may modify the amount of the insurance premium in the cases specified below:

- in the event of a material change of at least 4% in the loss ratio of this policy or in the loss frequency or average loss ratio of insurance policies pertaining to the same product as registered by the insurance company in the calendar year preceding the entry into effect of such modification;
- in the event of changes in public burdens affecting the insurance benefit;

The insurance premium may be modified with effect from the next renewal date of the insurance policy, in proportion to such altered circumstances, but up to a maximum of 100% (in case of a premium rise in view of an increase in the loss ratio of this policy, up to 300%).

- VI.5.3. The insurance company shall send written notification to the policyholder of the modified insurance premium in accordance with the provisions in Clauses VI.5.1 and VI.5.2 at least 30 days before the policy renewal date.

If the policyholder does not wish to maintain the policy subject to the new insurance premium amount communicated by the insurance company, the policyholder may terminate the insurance policy prior to the policy renewal date – by derogation from Clause III.4.2 of these Terms and Conditions, without a notice period – with effect from the policy renewal date. In the absence of such termination, the policyholder shall be obligated to pay such modified amount of the insurance premium with effect from the insurance policy renewal date.

- VI.5.4. The insurance premium will also be modified if the insurance company proposes the policyholder to modify the insurance premium with effect from the next policy renewal date, and the policyholder approves the proposed modification by paying the first modified premium due after the renewal date in accordance therewith. The insurance company will communicate its proposal for the modification of the insurance premium to the policyholder in writing and at least 30 (thirty) days prior to the next renewal date of the policy.
- VI.5.5. To verify the disclosed data, the insurance company is entitled to inspect the books of the policyholder (insured) to the extent necessary for the verification.

VI.6. Consequences of Premium Payment Default

- VI.6.1. The insurance policy shall terminate after the 60th day from the due date of the insurance premium if by that time, the premium arrears have not been settled or the policyholder has not been permitted to defer the payment, or the insurance company has not enforced the claim for premium payment in litigation. In the event that the policyholder has not paid the total amount of premium arrears but only part of it, and the period thus covered by premium payment corresponds to a date after the 60th day of the due date, then the policy will terminate with effect from the last day of premium payments being settled.

- VI.6.2. The insurance company may postpone the termination of the policy and the deadline for the enforcement of the payment in litigation by an additional 30 days, if it summonse the policyholder for the payment of the arrears in writing, informing him/her of the delay, before the end of the 60th day from the due date of the insurance premium. In the event that the policyholder is in default of premium payment and the insurance company institutes the enforcement of premium payment by litigation, the insurance premium calculated by the end of the policy period concerned shall be due in a single sum.
- VI.6.3. No insurance policy terminated as a consequence of premium payment default may be reinstated by posterior payment of the insurance premium. The insurance company is required to refund the premium difference. If a policy is terminated for a default in premium payment, the insurance company shall not send an express written notice of such fact to the policyholder (insured).
- VI.6.4. The insurance company shall not be obligated to set another extended deadline in the event of a default in premium payment.
- VI.6.5. If only a part of the due premium is paid, the policy shall remain in force with the same amount of coverage (sum insured) for a term to which the premium paid corresponds.

VI.7. Obligation of Premium Payment when the Policy is Terminated

The insurance company may demand payment of the insurance premium due by the date of termination of coverage. If any amount in excess of the pro-rata premium has been paid, the insurance company shall be required to refund such premium in excess.

This section does not include those provisions of the Directors and Officers Liability Insurance Terms and Conditions – different from the general policy terms applied earlier by the insurance company – which were amended in the interest of compliance with the provisions set out in Act V of 2013 on the Civil Code, taking effect on 15 March 2014.

XII.2.1. Deadline for Contesting a Certificate of Coverage which Derogates from the Application

Clause III.1.3. of these Terms and Conditions has specified the provision set out in Section 6:443. § (2) of the Civil Code in that the policyholder shall have the right to contest without delay or within a maximum of 15 days that the insurance company has issued a certificate of coverage whose content is different from that of the application.

If the insurance company only later learns that the obligation to disclose information and notify changes has been infringed with respect to a condition or circumstance subject to the above disclosure obligation, the insurance policy will be terminated with retroactive effect to the end of the policy period during which the specific circumstance or condition occurred.
